mentation of a poor Irish immigrant, whose berth had been robbed during the night and every penny of his scanty savings stolen. and whose family would, therefore, arrive beggars in a strange land. The charbeggars in a strange land. The charitable passengers at once began a subscription, which finally amounted to something over $250. When the money had been handed to the sufferer a pious, had been handed to the sufferer a pious, plausible-looking man, dressed in black and adorned with a white cravat, drew him aside at one of the stopping-places and

"My poor man, I am truly sorry for you. Your sad ease touches me deeply. I am myself well provided with this world's goods, however, and so will give you $250 more. Here is a $500 gold note. Give me the $250 you have and keep the rest. May Heaven bless you!"

The poor Irishman did as requested, with many blessings on the generous stranger, who insisted that his gift should not be made known. When the passengers reached this side of the bay the pious-looking philanthropist was nowhere to be found, he having evidently gotten off at Oakland for reasons of his own.

The next morning the immigrant repaired to a bank to get his note changed. The teller picked up the bill and began narrowly examining it.

"There+there is nothing wrong with the bill, is there?" gasped the poor fellow. Now the clever reader has seen all along what was going to happen. He has read lots of just such incidents as this. It is the old—old story. Well—we'll see about that.] "Nothing in the world is the matter with it," said the teller quietly, and he handed the man fifty tens. That ended it.

A LIFE-INSURANCE QUESTION ANSWERED. The first questions asked by those proposing to insure their lives are: "Is the company sound and strong and its methods of doing business safe and conservative?" "Has its past history been such as to lead to the belief that its strength will endure?" The Equitable Life-Assurance Society is shown to be such a company by the following illustration, which proves that by careful and efficient management it has been able to introduce a form of policy which gives the fullest indemnity at the lowest

The holder of Policy No. 44,590, a resident of West Virginia, insured June 17, 1869; age, 59; amount, $10,000; annual premium, $736. The Tontine period expired June 17, 1878, at which time an adjustment of the accumulations was made, the insured electing to apply the surplus or accumulations on his policy to the purchase of a life annuity of $368.64, and continuing his policy in force. His next premium, when the annuity and the annual dividend of $214.30 ure deducted, will be only $153.06. This is equivalent to a dividend of over 79 percent, of the annual premium. It is safe to say that results like the foregoing have never been achieved by any similar institution.

A CHINAMAN IN THE INSCRANCE BUSINESS. Surely and rapidly the Chinese are intruding into every line of business heretofore followed exclusively by whites. The latest incident occurred in the Board of Underwriters a few days ago. The Board was electing a lot of insurance brokers. Parenthetically, it may be stated that it is a rule of the Board that no insurance company can pay commissions to any person for business obtained unless that person has been negularly elected a broker by the Board. There were a large number of applicants on the fist, and among them were five Chinamen. To the surprise of those who think that American citizens are to be the property of the surprise of the pay of t preferred as business agents to the Chinese, one of the Chinamen was elected, while several white men of good business standing and character were black-balled. The Chinaman's name is Wab Kee, The affair has created much commotion in the Board, and it is not unlikely that the action will be

Lyman Potter, who has for seven menths been pushing a wheelbarrow across the continent, has arrived in San Francisco. He declares that he walked all the way, and a man who professedly watched him throughout the journey says that there was no fraud. Potter walked nearly if not the entire distance of about 5,000 miles in 215 days, and showed much pluck and endurance. The wheelbarrow was covered with advertisements, for which pay was received, and photographs were sold in great numbers. He tells entertaining stories of being shot at and poisoned by meu who had bet against him, of being chased by bears, and of narrow escapes from Indians, and there is nobody to contradict him. His evidence of honest walking consists of a large book of certificates by persons on the way, including all the station agents and sectionmen on the Pacific railroad.
